Listing of Claims:

1-24 (Cancelled)

25. (Currently Amended) A business form, comprising:

- a) a sheet of printable material having a document portion carrying documentation, and a labeling document portion separable from said labeling portion;
- b) a layer of adhesive material positioned over the labeling portion of said sheet;
- c) a release layer positioned over said layer of adhesive material and coextensive therewith;
- d) a label area formed in said sheet in said labeling portion, said label area defining a label separable from said sheet and said release layer while retaining said adhesive material on said label; and
- e) a pouch area formed in said release layer, said pouch area overlying said label area and extending outwardly of the perimeter of said label area but ending short of the perimeter of said labeling portion so as to form a frame area in said release layer between the perimeter of said pouch area and the perimeter of said labeling portion;
- f) said release layer in said frame area being separable from said sheet and from the remainder of said release layer to selectively expose said adhesive in said frame area so as to easily allow partial removal of said release layer in said frame area to facilitate insertion of a document into said pouch area, and to allow subsequent sealing off of said pouch area by removal of the remainder of said release layer.

26. (Previously Presented) The business form of Claim 25, in which said release layer is substantially transparent and has indicia printed in mirror image on its upper side so as to render said indicia legible upon removal of said label.

27. (Previously Presented) The business form of Claim 25, in which the upper side of said release layer inside said pouch area, together with the adhesive material exposed upon removal of said release layer in said frame area, forms a pouch for receiving documentation when said labeling portion is adhered to a container.

28. (Previously Presented) The business form of Claim 25, in which said document portion is separable from said labeling portion along a line of weakness.

29. (Previously Presented) The business form of Claim 25, in which said label is formed by a die cut through only said sheet and adhesive material layer, and said frame is formed by a die cut only through said release layer.
